

MOB USE THE TORCH IN THE COAL BELT.

STRIKING MINERS SET FIRE TO A BRIDGE.

The Declaration of Martial Law By Governor McCorkle Proves Futile as the Strikers Outnumber the Militia and are Much Better Armed—More Fighting Likely.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 3.—A special at 2:30 a. m. states that thirty men had fired the Cabin Creek bridge at about 2 o'clock. No hopes of saving it. Martial law has been declared at Eagle and the town is under military rule. While intense excitement still exists throughout the Kanawha valley over the trouble at the Eagle mines there is little change in the situation since yesterday. The sheriff is strongly backed by his posse, and General Moore's and Mayor Bank's, sent out by the governor with full powers, are ready to declare martial law at any moment. It is reported that 1,600 strikers are assembled at Montgomery for a new attack on Wyant's guards at Eagle mines, and that the governor has been asked for more troops as well as to retain those on the ground. The strikers now outnumber the troops and have Winchester, while the militia have only army guns. The rumored attacks on Powellton and other places are all with a view to finally closing in on Wyant of the Eagle mines.

Gov. McCorkle wired Major Banks that he would not send troops unless absolutely certain that the sheriff, with a strong posse comitatus, was unable to main order.

W. T. Atkins, the rioter who was killed in Wednesday's fight at Eagle, will be buried to-day, and it is feared the strikers may be aroused by inflammatory speeches at his funeral. Gov. McCorkle has three other companies in readiness to march at short notice, and says he is determined to use every effort to prevent violence.

ROW OVER THE PENSION ROLL.

Virginia Congressman Calls the List a Record of Dishonor—Disorder Results.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—In the house yesterday Mr. Kilgore presented his resolution calling upon the sergeant-at-arms for his reasons for not carrying out the provisions of the law, which require that he deduct from the salaries of the members for such time as they are absent. It was referred.

Mr. McKee called up from the committee of public lands the bill which has been before several previous congresses to provide for the opening of certain abandoned military reservations. Mr. Sayres, chairman of the appropriation committee, raised the question of consideration against it, but the house decided to go on with the bill. After some debate the bill was passed.

On motion of Mr. Holman, ex-Speaker Grow, the newly elected congressman-at-large from Pennsylvania, was the sworn in.

Mr. Boatner asked unanimous consent for the consideration of the resolution to investigate the action of Judge Jenkins in granting the injunction against the employees of the Northern Pacific railroad. Mr. Kilgore objected, and on motion of Mr. Sayers the house went into committee of the whole, Mr. Outhwaite (Ohio) in the chair, for the consideration of the fortifications appropriations bill. The total sum carried by the bill was $2,219,654 upon an estimate of $7,433,413. The fortifications bill in the Fifty-first congress carried $4,232,935. After slight amendments the bill was passed—70 to 9.

The pension appropriation bill next coming up Mr. O'Neill of Massachusetts, in charge of the measure, explained its provisions. The bill carried for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, $14,519,350 less than the bill last year. The original estimate for the coming fiscal year was $162,000,000, but it had been revised and cut down later by Commissioner Lochren. Mr. O'Neill took occasion in the course of his speech to defend the course of Commissioner Lochren.

Mr. Groate of Vermont followed with an assault on Commissioner Lochren's action in his wholesale suspension of pensioners. He concluded with a glowing tribute to the valor, bravery, and patriotism of the Union veterans.

Mr. Meredith (dem., Va.) said he protested against making the pension rolls a roll of dishonor in the name of a state that had paid three times as much for pensions as Vermont. Mr. Meredith went on to cite cases which he said made him believe that there were hundreds and thousands of fraudulent pensioners on the rolls.

He was interrupted by Mr. Funk (rep., Ill.) and a personal encounter between the two gentlemen seemed likely. The house was in a state of intense excitement and Speaker Crisp, who had been hurriedly sent for, mounted the rostrum and assumed the gavel, as he is allowed under the rules to do when the house is in committee of the whole in times of great disorder.

A few sharp rapts of the speaker's gavel produced a measure of quiet. The house recognized the hand of the presiding officer. "The sergeant-at-arms will cause the gentlemen to be seated," said the speaker in firm tones. "Every gentleman will be seated," he continued.

The assistant sergeant-at-arms rapidly cleared the aisles and Meredith walked back to his seat and sat down. After order had been restored Meredith arose and protested amid laughter that he was not excited, but that gentlemen could hardly do here what they might do elsewhere. With this parting shot he closed his speech and, immediately the house, which was at a high tension, on motion of Mr. Sayers took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be devoted to pension legislation.

There were forty-two members present when the house met at 8 o'clock for the consideration of private pension bills. Many bills were reported favorably.

BILL WANTS PROTECTION.

Tariff Needed by Manufacturers of New York and New England.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The democratic majority of the senate committee on finance gave the entire day yesterday to senators who advocate changes in the Wilson bill as amended by the senate subcommittee on tariff. Senator Hill was the first of the senators of this class admitted. He pleaded for protection for the manufacturing interests of the New England states as well as for New York, as none of those states are represented in the senate by democratic senators.

A large share of the day was given to a discussion of the income tax and the changes made by the committee from specific to ad valorem duties. On these features Senator Hill repeated and amplified the arguments made in opposition in the caucus.

Senators White and Caffery spoke for sugar; Senator White of California made a brief statement concerning wine and fruit duties. When he concluded the committee went into secret session and began the formulation of the bill, all of them remaining until late in the afternoon, and some of them continuing the work into the night.

Silver Men Not Surprised.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—None of the silver men in the house of representatives expressed any surprise when informed of the discouraging remarks of the British chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Vernon Harcourt, on the outlook of the reassembling of the monetary conference. Representative Bland said the action of England was immaterial. He believed the United States should stand on its own feet. "I never took any stock in this international business," he added. "I believe it is all humbug."

O'Neill will Represent Missouri.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—It will be at least three weeks before the house will be called upon to decide upon the merits of the Joy-O'Neill (Eleventh Missouri district) contested election case, but Chairman Browne of the elections committee says that the delay will not affect the case; that Mr. O'Neill will no doubt be seated.

Branch Mint at Lincoln Proposed.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—It is proposed to establish a branch mint of the United States at Lincoln, Neb., and a bill to carry such a proposition into effect has been presented in the house by Representative Bryan. An appropriation of $100,000 is asked to carry into effect the provisions of the act if it should prevail.

Bank Statement Called For.

JENKINS' RULE ON TRIAL.

Arguments Begun at Milwaukee to Modify the Northern Pacific Injunctions.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 3.—After two postponements of the application of Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Chief Sargent of the Brotherhood of Firemen and other labor leaders for a modification of the order issued by Judge Jenkins prohibiting the employees of the Northern Pacific road from entering on a strike, came up before the United States court yesterday. Mr. Harper of Terre Haute opened in behalf of the petition. During arguments Judge Jenkins made an unexpected remark. "If the employees want to quit and go to Texas," said he, "they have a perfect right to do so, either singly, in groups or in a body."

"Well, that's what we want," ejaculated one of the chiefs.

Judge Jenkins again made the statement, and said there was nothing in the injunctions that would prevent the men from quitting honestly and with the purpose of going away, but, he said, they must not in any way interfere with the operations of the road.

Mr. McNaught, one of the counsel for the receivers, in reviewing the argument said the admission of the counsel that violence and intimidation are unlawful acts which the court could prevent was all he asked, as these two things were the basis of the passage in the injunction which the court is asked to modify. Mr. McNaught had not concluded when court adjourned. He will be followed to-day by ex-Senator Spooner for the receivers.

Situation in Ohio Not Bright.

MASSILLON, Ohio, March 3.—The most significant development in the miners' lockout, which has continued since Feb. 19, was the circulation yesterday of subscription papers asking for aid for destitute families, and the sale by the county of bonds for $18,999 for the purpose of refilling the depleted poor funds.

FOR A HOT FIGHT AND A SHORT ONE.

REPUBLICANS OF THE STATE FULL OF VIM.

Preparing to Bury the Democrats—Colonel Nicholas Smith for Secretary—H. C. Thom Will Hold His Place as Chairman—State Central Committee's Sessions.

MILWAUKEE, March 3.—As the snow drifts melt away it is seen that republican state candidates will be plentiful this year. The meeting of the state central committee yesterday afternoon brought out several new names and also showed the desire for a short campaign and a brisk one to be general. Among those who are being urged, or who are said to be candidates for gubernatorial honors, are: Mayor Koch of Milwaukee; H. A. Taylor of Madison; James Monahan, the Darlington newspaper man; Joseph B. Treat of Green county; Major W. H. Upham of Marshfield; E. A. Kidd of Prairie du Chien and A. P. Lovejoy of Janesville.

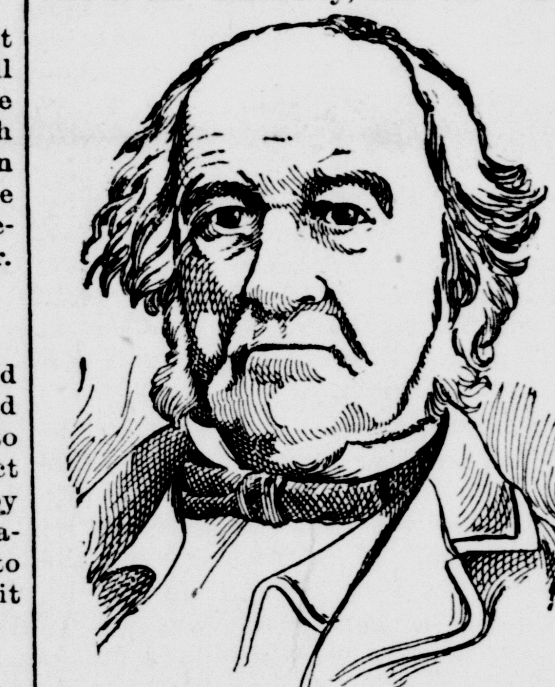

Some of the committeemen favor the state ticket of 1893 from secretary of state down. It is ticket would include R. W. Jackson for secretary of state, Atley Peterson for state treasurer, James O'Neill for attorney-general, W. H. Chandler for state superintendent of schools, John D. Bullock for railroad commissioner and James E. Heg for commissioner of insurance.

H. H. Rand, who is the regular secretary of the committee, will not be able to serve during the coming year, and the question of a successor was taken up. The name of Nicholas Smith is favorably considered for the place, if he will accept it. Mr. Thom will remain as chairman.

NEW ROSTER JURY MUST BE CALLED.

MEMBER OF THE FIRST BODY ROASTS CLARK.

Declares in the Presence of Several That the Court Should "Sock it to Him" but Should Let the Others Go Special Venire Returnable on Wednesday.

MADISON, Mich. 3.—There was a decided sensation developed in the roster case this morning.

It was no less a fact than that a juror had expressed himself that Clark ought to have it "socked to him" and that the rest of the defendants were innocent.

The juror, Reible, had said this in conversation with several whose affidavits were presented. The matter led to a long discussion, both in and out of court and Judge Seibecker finally ruled that the matter be fully investigated and reported upon, and that the whole jury be dismissed and a new venire issued for the case. To this the plaintiffs objected, preferring to go on with the trial before eleven jurors. No testimony was taken except the reading of the rest of Governor Peck's deposition. The special venire was sent out and is returnable on Monday at 10 o'clock, when the trial will continue.

TRAIN ROBBERS FAIR.

Engineer of the Rock Island's Chicago Express Refuses to Stop.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 3.—Five men attempted to hold up the east-bound Rock Island passenger train three miles east of this city last evening at 7:25. Torpedoes were placed on the track and one of the robbers industriously swung a danger signal red light. Engineer Patrick McKinney at once divined the purpose of robbery and put on a full head of steam.

He and his fireman crouched down to the floor of the cab and not a minute too soon, for when the robbers saw the move they fired a volley into the engine and cab, but luckily hurt no one. The train dashed through amid a shower of bullets, the bandits wild with rage firing into the coaches as they passed and creating consternation among the passengers, who crawled down under the seats and hid their valuables. When the train reached Stockbridge it was found over 100 bullets had hit it. Messages were at once sent back to this city and a force of police is scouring the country. The robbers wore white masks, but none of them could be recognized. As the engine whizzed by one of the robbers called to the engineer with an oath, saying: "Stop that engine, McKinney, or we will kill you." At the same time he emptied the contents of two revolvers into the cab. The train was the regular Rock Island passenger for Chicago. The robbers are undoubtedly the same gang that has twice successfully held up Burlington trains. The scene of the attempted robbery is within a few yards of where the first Burlington robbery occurred two months ago. Officers are after the gang.

SKINNED HIM ALIVE.

Negro Kidnaper Meets a Horrible Fate at the Hands of Lynchers.

BARBOURSVILLE, Ky., March 3.—It is reported from Harlan county that Len Tye, the negro who murdered Miss Bryant near Williamsburg about a year ago, has recently visited Harlan county, where he kidnaped a farmer's daughter and kept her secreted in the woods for some time, until a party of hunters found her.

They waited for his return, when they caught and tied him and proceeded to skin him alive, and before he was dead the girl built a fire on his head and he was roasted alive.

It is said he confessed the murder of Miss Bryant and said that he had taken three other victims in Kentucky and Tennessee, and kept them in the same manner he had the Harlan county girl, until they died for want of shelter and protection.

MAY PENSION QUEEN LIL.

Special Commissioner from Hawaii Says the New Government Has Won.

OMAHA, Neb., March 3.—W. F. Alexander, special commissioner of the provisional government at Honolulu, passed through Omaha yesterday afternoon on his return from Washington. In conversation he said: "The provisional government has won the fight. It will give the queen a pension and retire her, providing she behaves herself. She will not be sent into exile, as the leaders of the provisional government do not regard her as a worthy martyrdom. The idea of annexation has not been abandoned by the provisional government, but will be made the object of a fight in the near future."

CARLOAD OF MINERS HURT.

Four of Them Injured Fatally by a Roll Down an Embankment.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 3.—A car on the narrow gauge railroad running between the little village of Moccanaqua and the coal mines of the West End Coal company, loaded with miners going to their work, ran off the track and down an embankment this morning. Four men were fatally injured and others dangerously hurt.

PICKING UP COURAGE.

More People Ready to Make Limited Investments—Failures for the Week.

NEW YORK, March 3.—R. G. Dun's weekly trade review says: More works have resumed or increased hands or hours than have stopped or reduced, but numerous reductions in wages continue to lessen the purchasing power of those at work. The demand from distributors is almost exclusively for medium or low priced woolen and cotton goods and boots and shoes. Some salesmen and traders find indications that stocks of the higher priced goods remaining on hand are much larger than usual. The bankers judge that much of the demand for commercial loans is virtually for renewals to carry such unsold stocks. In all branches of the woolen manufacture the demand is yet below the usual mark, but it is somewhat improved in worsteds and dress goods, and leading mills have been taking wool quite largely, so that in three chief markets the sales have been 4,893,200 pounds for the week against 5,198,200 last year in part because scarcely any foreign wool has been imported for months and supplies are short. Western markets are also broader without improvement in price.

The most encouraging feature of the week's record is the decrease in number and importance of failures. For the third week of February the liabilities thus far reported are only $2,886,346, and for the three weeks of the month only $11,420,418, of which $5,045,837 were of manufacturing and $5,281,633 of trading concerns. The number reported in February is 1,260, against 2,080 in January, and the full liabilities were probably less than $15,000,000 against $30,946,197 in January. In November and December the amount exceeded $60,000,000. For the last week the failures have been 264 in the United States, against 206 last year, and forty-two in Canada, against forty-five last year, scarcely any being of much importance.

AFTER THE "MEDICS."

Attorney Bottom Talks on Expert Testimony.

CHICAGO, March 3.—In resuming his argument before the jury in the Coughlin case yesterday, Assistant State's Attorney Bottom pronounced his views upon expert medical testimony in no uncertain terms. He declared that he would rather trust himself to the mercies of the horde of cannibals in the Sandwich Islands than to place his life in the hands of some medical experts. His address for an hour or so bristled with an attack upon a portion of the medical testimony introduced in the case.

Court adjourned till 10 a. m. next Monday, March 5.

ANNEXES FIVE TOWNS.

Cincinnati Increases Its Population by Several Thousand.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 3.—Under the authority of an act of the state legislature the Cincinnati board of legislation last night passed an ordinance annexing to the city the adjacent villages of Westwood, Clifton, Avondale, Linwood and Riverside. Mayor Mosby signed the ordinance making it immediately effective. This will add from 10,000 to 15,000 to the population of the city. Some of the villages may resist annexation by an appeal to the courts.

Discuss Railway Affairs.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The first meeting of the house committee on Pacific railroads to consider the affairs of the Union and Central Pacific was held yesterday. Twelve of the fifteen members were present and the hour was consumed in a general discussion, in the course of which tentative propositions were advanced by several members, but there was hardly enough expression to indicate where the committeemen stand.

Carlisle Finds a Law Bad.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Secretary Carlisle has decided that it would be impracticable to put into operation the provisions of the Tarnsey bill, which requires the secretary of the treasury to submit to at least six members of the American Institute of Architects plans for proposed public buildings. He will therefore ask congress to repeal the law.

Anti-Option Bill Hearing.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Col. Hatch has decided to grant hearings on the anti-option bill before the agriculture committee on next Monday and Tuesday. The hearings will be devoted to opponents of the bill and a like hearing will be given to those in favor of the bill later on. Col. Hatch says he expects to report back the bill to the house before April. He has no doubt that it will pass.

BALL IN HIS CHEST DIDN'T HURT BUSS

GENEVA MAN UNINJURED BY BEING SHOT.

Accidental Discharge of a Revolver Landed a Heavy Bullet In His Breast and Although the Doctor Could Not Find It He is Still at Work.

LAKE GENEVA, March 3.—A bullet in his breast didn't make any difference to Joe Buss, the telegraph operator at the depot. Buss was swapping revolvers and for safety removed the cartridges, but after the trading talk was done he slipped them in again and laid the gun on the shelf. The other fellow did not know this, and carelessly picked up the gun and snapped the trigger. It went off and the ball struck Buss squarely in the chest. Dr. Reynold's was summoned and the ball probed for but it could not be found and it is supposed that it struck a bone and glanced into his arm or shoulder. Strange to say Buss was not laid up by the accident and suffered no trouble. He is at work again.

INSURANCE IN BIG CITIES.

Western Union of Fire Underwriters Wants to Control the Rates.

ST. LOUIS, March 3.—The Western Union of Fire Insurance Underwriters resumed its labors yesterday. The principal subject of discussion was: "Treatment of Large Cities." The union has no jurisdiction over St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville and Cleveland, which are governed by local boards, and the union will endeavor to bring them within its jurisdiction. At present the local boards make the rate on all risks. The union deems this unwise and detrimental to the good of the underwriters. If these cities come under the control of the union a contract manager will be appointed who will make all rates.

ANGRY MOB STORMS A JAIL.

Pennsylvania Attempt to Lynch a Black Murderer at Stroudsburg.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 3.—A mob of 200 men attempted to force the jail at Stroudsburg early this morning with the purpose of lynching Richard Prior, the negro who a week ago murdered Christian Ehlers, a storekeeper in Monroe county. The attack was made at 2 o'clock, but was repulsed by the sheriff, who held the mob at bay until the police appeared. The mob retired in a sullen mood, and it is feared that they will be reinforced and will yet succeed in breaking into the jail and secure the murderer.

FOR A NEW CONSTITUTION.

Kansas Populists Declare for a National Co-operative Industrial System.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 3.—At a meeting of the Farmers' alliance yesterday afternoon the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That the time has now arrived in the history of the republic when we need a new constitution and a new national co-operative system of industry that shall furnish remunerative employment to every able-bodied citizen."

The resolution is to be discussed in every alliance in the state and will be considered in the populist state convention.

Kills the Peacemaker.

EUGENE, Ore., March 3.—Last night Albert Moss and his father quarreled, and David Coleman, a farmer living near by, took sides with the father. Young Moss at once went to Coleman's house and commenced shooting at the family. He first attacked the married daughter of Coleman, killing her instantly. He then shot another daughter through the arm and finally attacked Coleman, whom he shot through the abdomen, inflicting fatal injuries. Moss then went home and killed himself.

Dead Men at a Dance.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 3.—While a dance was in progress in Madison county George Hensley told his wife it was time to go home. W. R. Shelton, Jr., told her to stay as long as she liked. Both men took hold of her. Hensley shot Shelton through the heart, but despite his wound Shelton shot Hensley three times and then fell lifeless, with his pistol ready for the fourth shot. Hensley fled to the woods and is supposed to have died.

Somers' Resolution Is Killed.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The judiciary committee decided yesterday against extending the scope of investigation to include the decisions rendered by Judges Taft, Brewer, Pardee, Speer, and Ricks. Mr. Somers of Wisconsin, who introduced the resolution, appeared before the committee and made a strong argument in favor of it. The committee decided that it would not enlarge the scope of the investigation at present, and the Somers resolution will be reported unfavorably.

Accused of Cruelty.

CHICAGO, March 3.—An official report made yesterday to the public service committee of the board of county commissioners contained specifications of charges of cruel and shameful treatment of insane patients at the detention hospital during 1893. The matter has been under investigation by the hospital committee and a big sensation is reported.

PASTOR PENCE NOT THE ONLY PRODIGY.

NCNE EUT SMART MEN IN THAT FAMILY.

Janesville Minister's Brother is Late
Perce, the Famous Populist Leader
Who Has Won so Much Fame in Debate—He Has Some Fiery Comrades in the House.

Rev. E. H. Perce isn't the only smart one in the Pence family. The most brilliant of the populists in the house of representatives is his brother, "Lafe" Pence, of Colorado. He is as breezy in debate as the wind scattering cones from Rocky mountain pines. Tall, thin and straight, with a voice as shrill and clear as the notes of a gamecock, he attracts the attention of the house the instant he takes the floor. Words pour from him in rhythmic fluency. His gestures are well timed and his points are usually clinched with pertinent anecdotes. Pence was born in Indiana in the shadow of the "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash." He is a graduate of Hanover college, and has practiced law ever since 1878. He will be 36 years old in December next. He has a boyish appearance and is negligé in dress. Pence fills the place occupied by Tom Watson in the last congress, and fills it far more acceptably. Watson aroused bitter enemies, but Pence, while speaking with all of Watson's ardor and effectiveness, is a general favorite in the house. In discussion he is as quick as a humming bird.

Next in the populist line is John Davis of Kansas. This is his second term. John looks like a genuine old farmer. He has gray hair and a moss-like tuft on his chin. He makes a speech with the same unconcern that he would handle a plow in turning a furrow. He has a resonant voice and a stirring manner. Unlike Jerry Simpson, he shows no humor in his addresses. He says what he has to say in the plainest words, and impresses it upon his hearers by the use of his fist. Simpson was their candidate for speaker, and is undoubtedly their leader on the floor of the house. There is a substantial substratum in Jerry's politics. His tendencies seem to be democratic. This is natural, for without democratic aid in Kansas he might not have been elected and re-elected a member of congress. Bryan is about 5 feet 9 inches in height and well knit. He has hair as black and as straight as the hair of an Indian, a clean-shaven face, strongly lined, and snapping black eyes. He is a little stoop shouldered. He wears gold-bowed spectacles, and is dressed neatly and economically. He is an inveterate reader and a logical talker. He speaks calmly and dispassionately, laying the foundation for his argument with the utmost deliberation and building thereon carefully and strongly. He never saves the air in passion, nor does his voice crack the tympanum of his hearers. Given to asking questions of others in debate, he never refuses to answer questions propounded to him. There is no straining for effect or beating about the bush. His speeches give evidence of careful preparation and are annealed by the intensity of his convictions. Jerry was a sailor for twenty-three years.

William Baker is a fit mate for John Davis. There is a similarity between the two men. They work together with the steadiness and strength of well-mated oxen. Nor do they need a yoke to keep them together. They are browsing in the populist field and they need no post and rail fence to keep them there. Rarely do you find them absent from the house. They watch legislation with intense interest, always offering amendments to bills in the interest of the farmers they claim to represent. Both are practical farmers. Baker has studied law, and was graduated from Waynesboro college in 1856. He has also been a school teacher. Davis is five years older than Baker, and was a leading abolitionist years ago. He has been the editor of a paper, and is a writer on economic subjects.

Not far away sits another Kansas populist, Hon. Thomas J. Hudson. He has a magnificent physique and a sonorous voice. He is a close friend ant on the sessions of the house and an ardent listener. He evidently has the elements of statesmanship about him. This was indicated in his speech on the silver bill.

A contrast with the other populist is Hon. Francis G. Newlands of Nevada. He is a millionaire and a Yale alumnus. He is the trustee of the estate of the late William Sharon. Aside from this he is a partner of Senator William M. Stewart in real estate deals.

The leading populist from Nebraska, if William Jennings Bryan remains in the democratic party, is William Arthur McKeighan of Red Cloud. McKeighan is tall, angular and bony. He has a clean-shaven face, high cheek bones, sunken eyes and thick brown hair. He is a man of brawn and intellect. Born of Irish parents in New Jersey, he was a soldier in the late war, and afterward pre-empted a farm in Nebraska. It is said that he was living in a dugout when first nominated for office. However this may be, it is certain that he has turned many a sod and reaped many an acre of grain. With all this hard work he has been an inveterate reader, and is undoubtedly as well informed on political subjects as any man in the house. His speeches show great research and careful arrangement. There is nothing brilliant about him. He never aspires to eloquence, but states his facts in clear and precise language, molding them so perfectly that the shrewdest lawyer would hardly be able to find a joint in his armor. McKeighan is indebted to the indorsement of a democratic convention for his seat in the house. He had run for congress as a democrat against James Laird some years before, and was defeated. A close attendant on the sessions of the house, there is no more useful man in congress.

Near McKeighan sits Homer Madison Kem of Broken Bow, Neb. He is a sharp-eyed gentleman, with auburn hair and beard. He was born in Indiana in 1855, was brought up on a farm and received a fair education. In 1882 he entered land under the Homestead law in Nebraska, and, like McKeighan, is said to have resided in a dugout when sent to congress. Kem is a man of the strongest convictions, and is a representative populist. Although not demonstrative in the house, he is ever on the alert, acting promptly whenever he considers the interests of his party require it. The populists have no more faithful servant. He is serving his second term. He ran as a populist independent, beating the republican candidate over 3,000 and the democratic candidate over 11,000 votes.

A really demonstrative populist is John C. Bell of Colorado. Bell, like Prince, is a rare avis among stump speakers. He was born in Grundy county, Tenn., and has lived in Colorado since 1874. His speeches in the late campaign in Virginia attracted much attention. He has made one or two speeches in the house that have shaken up the dry bones. Mr. Bell is six years older than his colleague, Mr. Pence. If the populists are to hold their own in congress and increase their membership, it will require the continuous service of men like Bell and Pence to do it. There are already indications that the republicans are regaining their foothold in Colorado. If this is so, there will be high old times in the Rocky mountains next fall. Bell and Pence will probably find it easier to magnetize the miners than to bewitch the farmers of Virginia. Wherever they appear they are sure to have large audiences and to awaken enthusiasm.

Last of all among the populists is Haldor E. Boen of Minnesota. Boen was born in Norway, and came to this country when 17 years old. He owns a farm of 332 acres, which he pre-empted. He worked it for six years, teaching school in winter. He has held many minor offices in Minnesota and was the only farmers' alliance candidate elected there last fall. Indeed, his influence in Minnesota politics is remarkable, for, unlike Ignatius Donnelly and other populists, whose fame appears to be world wide, Boen makes very few speeches. He is eminently social and genial, however, telling good stories, and being able to converse on almost any subject. When thoroughly aroused his speeches are very telling. He is a man of bone and sinew, and this bone and sinew extend to his intellect. There is probably no one in Minnesota who has more influence with the Norwegian element. Boen is a great friend of Knute Nelson, a Norwegian, now governor of the state. Nelson was one of the two republican members who voted for the Mills bill in the fiftieth congress. Boen is as fully independent in his political convictions, and is evidently marked for higher honors.

PINCOFFS FAILURE LOOKS VERY BAD.

WAS IT A PLAN TO SWINDLE DEALERS?

Edgerton Reporter Insists That the Time Was Ripe for a Killing and That There Was "Something Rotten in Denmark."—The Lesson Expensive But Good.

Was L. Pincoffs failure, which brought disaster to Janesville leaf men, a part of a deliberate plan to swindle country dealers? The suggestion comes from Edgerton. The Edgerton Reporter, F. W. Coon's paper insists that this was a favorable time for the development of such a fraud, and the tobacco men were ripe for a killing. The hard times had made holders of tobacco anxious to dispose of their packings and with a profit in sight they forgot to use the usual discretion regarding security. There has not been a time in years when they could have been taken in as easily or have fallen into a pitfall so readily. The dumping however was not unlooked for, among the older dealers in the eastern markets who are familiar with the conditions of the export trade. It has been known to them for several months that the Pincoffs concern was selling tobacco in the Bremen market at prices lower than the New York exporters were able to compete with when it was well known at this end that the goods were being bought at prices higher than the local dealers were able to pay. The conclusion therefore was that Pincoffs was either stealing his tobacco or there was something "rotten in Denmark" or America. At any event it was evident there was a hoku poku game being played somewhere in the deal. Now, that the secret is out it is easy to see why the Chicago Napoleon of finance was able to ship abroad ten thousand cases of Wisconsin tobacco in the last sixty days. The men who furnished the goods have been swindled. The name of Pincoffs will be a stench in some quarters of the state for some years to come.

The Lesson Was Expensive.

The dumping of Wisconsin tobacco dealers to the extent of from $40,000 to $50,000 by the Pincoffs failure in Chicago last week, unfortunate as it is from a commercial point of view, but serves as a lasting lesson in guiding future operations in the leaf business. The Reporter continues. The luring attractions of large profits often prompts to reckless business ventures which almost invariably lead to losses at the end. Local tobacco dealers, usually men with moderate means, have yet to learn that the tobacco business needs to be done on a conservative and careful basis. Their stocks must of necessity be bought for cash and if sales were insisted on for cash or its equivalent, the losses if any must occur from depreciation in value or in the damage to stocks while in their hands. The eastern dealers may be able to carry customers on time payments because of their greater capital in business or from their better knowledge of the financial standing of their customers which the country dealers have not the facilities for finding out; but the local packers cannot afford to compete with them on this class of trade. Hereafter let tobacco trading be cash at both ends of the deal and there will be no more local dealers ruined through such rotten failures as that of the Pincoffs concern.

Chicago Bank Man Here.

The first intimation that the Chicago firm was not on a substantial basis came a few weeks ago when a representative of a Chicago bank was sent into the state to inquire about the security the bank held upon certain warehouse receipts of tobacco said to be in store in warehouses at packing points.

An attachment to the amount of $5,500 was levied on tobacco in H. T. Hanson's possession at Stoughton by the Merchant's Savings Bank, to satisfy a claim against L. Pincoffs but the tobacco is claimed by farmers who have not as yet received payment and the goods will probably be released. The crops of And Simonson, A. Nelson, and Martin Mason, of Albion, were in the lots. Edgerton dealers have been very fortunate in not being scorched in the Pincoffs deal to any great amount. E. C. Hopkins is the only one that is believed to have been caught and he only for a few hundred dollars. Several lots have been bought in that market for the Pincoffs account, but had not been delivered or settled for so the dealers still have their goods.

ORANGES AT 7 CENTS A BOX.

This Isn't Much of a Season For the Florida Grower.

"Talk about oranges being plenty and cheap," said a local grocer this morning. "A Chicago house sent a man to Florida to buy a carload. The agent guaranteed the grower $1 per box net. When the returns were made the grower received just seven cents a box. Then the grower got the agent in jail and the house had to make up the difference to get him out. The returns were honest, but the agent guaranteed more than he could fulfill."

HEAVY FIRE LOSSES CONSUME PROFITS.

LOCAL INSURANCE MEN DEFEND INCREASED RATES.

In This City the Losses Have Been Much Below the Amount of Premiums, But in the Country at Large This Has Not Been the Case—Damage Very Heavy In 1893.

Local insurance men insist that the increase in rates is justified even here. In Janesville the premiums have exceeded the losses by a heavy percentage but in other cities this is not so. A statement has been compiled and printed by the companies giving the amount of premiums received and losses paid for the year 1893. The statement includes all companies receiving one million dollars or more in premiums, twenty one American and and nineteen foreign companies doing business in the United States. Of the forty companies only two appear in the list as having and excess of premiums over losses and expenses paid, these being the Fireman's Fund of California, which shows a profit of $74,093, and the Liverpool & London & Globe, showing a profit of $7,191. The total premiums returned by the twenty-one American companies is $54,161,101, and the losses and expenses paid are $55,196,04. The premiums of the nineteen foreign companies is given at $37,048,538, and the losses and expenses paid at $38,517,697. The aggregate loss for the year sustained by the American companies is placed at $4,705,591, and that of the foreign companies is placed at $4,705,591, and that of the foreign companies at $2,180,449. The statement is given to the public as a reason which impels the insurance companies to increase premium rates throughout the country.

FIGHT IN THE ELKS LODGE.

Members of the Janesville Order Have a Red Hot Contest.

Janesville Elks locked horns last night and a battle between two rival factions resulted. Pieces of antlers were scattered about the room and one set was driven half way through the ceiling by one warrior who jumped too high. A secret society within a secret society was the cause of the rumpus and it resulted in placing two tickets in the field as officers of the lodge. The anti-secret ticket is as follows:

Esteemed Ruler—G. M. McKey.
Esteemed Leading Knight—C. A. Potter.
Esteemed Lecturing Knight—W. A. Jackson.
Esteemed Loyal Knight—M. G. Jeffris.

Treasurer—N. L. Carle.
Secretary—B. H. Baldwin.
Enquire—O. D. Rowe.
Trustee for three years—G. G. Sutherland.

The secret ticket was:
Esteemed Ruler—R. Valentine.
Esteemed Leading Knight—E. D. McGowan.
Esteemed Lecturing Knight—F. C. Cook.
Esteemed Loyal Knight—L. H. Becker.

Treasurer—C. B. Conrad.
Secretary—B. H. Baldwin.
Enquire—O. F. Nowlan.
Trustee for three years—Henry Palmer.

There was no contest for secretary but on the other candidates it was red hot. Under the by-laws an election can not be held until the last meeting in March so they have plenty of time to electioneer and dark horses may yet capture the prize.

"MATINEE WOMAN" THE ACTOR'S PRIDE.

SHE IS THE TRUE GLORY OF HER SEX.

Henry Miller, the Actor, Gives His Impressions of This Unique Patron of the Play-Houses—No Play Succeeds Without Her.

others of her sex, and particularly from those who are patrons of the theater.

You never heard the designation, "matinee woman," used, because there are no matinee women. Once a matinee girl always a matinee girl, no matter whether she marries or mixes in politics or her bang turns gray.

She goes to the theater in the afternoon, and at no other time. It may be that she has to remain home to look after her husband in the evening, or it may be that her friends and relatives are too blue-lawish to furnish her the necessary escort to a night performance, or, again, she may prefer matinees, and has taken on the habit of meeting Miss Easyface in the waiting-room of one of the downtown dry-goods shops or Miss Laughingwater at a neighboring drug store on Wednesday and Saturday.

If she missed this tryst by reason of rain or disappointment or some other dire interference, a quantity of gloom would be inserted in her life that would make her sad for several days. The matinee habit, which holds so many in its fascinating grasp, has her badly. There is no hope for her.

But the worst that can be said against the matinee girl is that she is so numerous that she makes the actors play seven and eight times a week. She is as persistent as a porous plaster, and as devout at the shrine of dramatic art as a Mussulman in his mosque. And she must have her matinee. It is as necessary to her as her meals or her chateleine mirror.

In consequence of which we poor slaves of the sock and buskin have to play a little oftener than we would otherwise. But she is pretty as a peeping through the gates of Paradise, and we forgive her the trouble she causes us on account of her zeal, her cleverness and other jolly good points, including her pulchritude.

She has been described as silly, but I think that is a mistake. She has been diagnosed as a composition of caramels and gush, and that is a mistake, too. She is effervescent—there is no question about that—and her adjectives are as sweet as the contents of her bonbonniere, but she is not silly and she is not all confectionery and lalligag.

The matinee girl is a very sensible patron of dramatic art, and worships at its shrine very intelligently. I like to play for her because she is a sensitive and properly attuned instrument; she responds readily to sentimentality, and the grander sweeps of passion fill her soul-chords with a resonance for which there is no room in the makeup of a jaded night patron of the theater. She is innocent and unsophisticated, ingenuous as a rose leaf, tender as a

Henry Miller, actor, dewdrop; the dramatist's every artifice and the actor's lightest mimicry find her always in a receptive and responsive mood.

Exquisitely sensitive to all the subtleties of sentiment, the matinee girl can also lay claim to measurably important mentality. Her judgment is delicate and well balanced. False pathos can not fool her; meretricious flippancy can not beguile her. I do not think she is the kind that adjectival poets, mere euphonistic versifiers, can send into ecstasies.

She may think with her heart, as a woman in general is said to do, but it is a judicious heart, and it is a good substitute for the cerebral organ, for the words that reach and move it must have meaning; empty sounding rhythms mystify and puzzle her, but direct words, honest thought-pictures presenting true and proper sentiment, have her esteem and applause at once. She usually bestows her sympathy in the right direction, too. Her instinct in this regard is unerring.

I watched a big matinee audience recently with one special object in view. I wanted to see how the matinee girl would receive that charming girl character, Rosamund, played with such marvelous art touches by Miss Viola Allen, in "Sowing the Wind."

Rosamund is a child of chance, but a pure, almost saintly, creature whose virtue so outshines her surroundings that the background of sin against which she looms is vague and shadowy. The chaste sweetness of the young woman and her helplessness in the fight of sex against sex, in which she stands alone on girlhood's side, are emphasized at the very start. No body in the audience can be misled.

In the evening audiences women hesitate about taking Rosamund to their hearts. The matinee girl did not hesitate. She saw Rosamund's sinlessness immediately, saw the injustice that was aiming at her, the cruel strength of those who would do her wrong, and the matinee girl took that weak and lonely sister, figuratively, by the hand at once and stood nobly by her all through her battles. And the matinee girl made Rosamund's triumph over her enemies for the sake of her love a brilliant and enthusiastic one.

She can laugh sensibly, too. Indeed, the matinee girl is a good thing all round for the theatrical manager. She is his barometer and best friend. If the matinee girl gives her approval, a play is all right. If she crowds the house Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, the play is a tremendous hit. She swarms around a big success. If she stays away from a play, "frost" is no name for it.

She gets her money's worth out of the matinee. For her it is a social as well as an art occasion. She listens and follows the play with devout and devouring attention, but who that has heard the munching of marshmallows and the crunching of chocolate creams and the twitter and jocund jabber that fills the interim between the acts, can deny that she visits the theater for enjoyment and gets it every time? The matinee girl is the glory of her sex. Long may she wave!

A Peculiar Will.

One of the most peculiar wills ever recorded was that of Madam Meens, who died in Antwerp, in which she left all her estate to her relatives up to the twelfth degree of kinship. The testator was reported to have been worth one hundred millions of dollars. The ambitious relatives hastened to file their claims. As a result the court is obliged to pass upon the alleged rights of 14,554 heirs. The family tree of one heir alone covers a space sixteen meters square. The poor people are doomed to disappointment, as the estate turned out to be worth only about three millions. So many lawyers have been engaged that their fees alone will swallow up this amount.

Kingly Eagle Licked by a Coyote.

While coming across Combs flat recently W. C. Plummer, of Pineville, Oregon, witnessed an exciting fight between an eagle and a coyote. The eagle had caught a rabbit and the coyote undertook to take it away from him. MYSTERIES OF THE FLOWERS.

What William Hamilton Gibson Said of Them in a Lecture.

The lecture was confined solely to the subject of cross-fertilization. Starting with the discovery of Drew in 1682, who established the fact that unless pollen was deposited on the stigma of the flower there could be no seed, the lecturer brought his hearers through the discoveries made up to the time when Darwin announced that cross-fertilization was aided by honey-gathering insects.

The sage blossom was shown first on the chart. The mechanical device revealed a bee just entering the cup in search of honey. As the bee worked its way into the heart of the flower the stamen was pressed down until it touched its back, on which the pollen was deposited. The stigma was also forced to bend, and as the bee crawled out the stigma touched its back and took up the pollen that was deposited there. This was given as an example of cross-fertilization where the stigma was not below the stamen.

To prove that the bee was a necessary aid to the propagation of the red clover and other flowers, Mr. Gibson cited the following case:

"Some years ago," he said, "the red clover, which is a native of this continent, was transplanted in Australia and New Zealand. It was not the crop that was wanted, but the seed, and when, at the end of the season, no seed appeared it was thought that the soil was not the proper kind for the production of the red clover. This was not so. The transplanters had forgotten to bring along the bumblebee, and, naturally enough, there was no means of fertilization. The next year the bee was brought, and the result was a magnificent crop of clover."

"Another fact I would like to call your attention to is that all flowers in which the stamen is below the stigma, so that the pollen does not fall upon it, have some means of attracting insects in order that the pollen may be brought to the stigma. They are brightly colored, fragrant, or are nectar-producing. Any of these attributes will attract the insect, so that the pollen may be carried to the stigma when the insect leaves the cup."

"Freak" flowers, the lecturer explained, were also propagated by the transmission of pollen by insects. The pollen of a deformed flower, he said, was carried from its stigma to that of another flower, and the deformity inherited in the product. It is in this manner, he said, that florists produce the queer-looking flowers that they exhibit at the horticultural shows.

A Whimsical Chap.

Once tried to quote Bulwer (was it Bulwer?) and said, "Great aches from little toe corns grow," and altho' he didn't exactly quote he got there, got there as it were, with both feet, at least with a part of both.

"To be or not to be," said Shakespeare, (or Bacon?) and he to, may not be far off. Foot it over hill and dale, 'til you are weary and foot-sore, and you cannot find such bargains as we offer in building sites, Homesites, for on these and the prices of the same and terms, too, we always did "ace the mark." For some reason we are this spring getting onto the goods, the prices and the terms with both feet. And so, with Hamlet we soliloquize: "The wonder grows", why people are not "up in arms" when the prices we quote are looked into. You can get a home, if you wish, so long as we are in the business; hard times don't count. If you are not earning so much money as you did last year, we will meet you; it don't matter.

Homesites and Homes are our fad; to help people get 'em is what we are on earth for, this time.

The main secret, we suppose, why we always get the major part of the real estate trade going, is that we own a large part of the property that we offer. Another part of the secret is, we deal every time so that our customer sends to us his or her friend when they want to deal.

Our beginnings here were not large, but so true it is that "Great oaks from little acorns grow," that the "birds of the air" have their homes,—build their nests,—in the result of our grain of mustard seed. Come over and roost with us. Yours very truly, will be offered, as farm lands are rapidly advancing in price throughout the northwest. The man who owns a good farm today is a happy man.

Below we give an estimate on what can be raised on this land the first year. Suppose a man were to buy 80 acres; clean up ten acres and plant it to potatoes; for which there is no better soil in the world. Ten acres of potatoes should yield an average crop of 250 bushels per acre. Average for the last three years has been 10x250=2500 bushels. 250 cents would amount to $1,250.00

First cash payment on 80 acres..... $160 00
Moving 100 to 200 miles on cars..... 40 00
House, frame..... 200.00

The prospects of the farm, are the opportunities for labor at good wages in Chippewa lumber district which lies only thirty miles to the north of these lands, where several thousand men are employed every winter.

SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES. Good schools and churches are characteristic of Clark county. No efforts have been spared on the part of her citizens to make their common and high schools equal to the best.

THIS COUNTRY is fast filling up with thrifty farmers, and will be entirely settled within the next two or three years.

NO SUCH OPPORTUNITY Team, wagon and

harness.....	125.00
Plow, cultivator and tools.....	40.00
Seed for ten acres of potatoes.....	30.00
Living expenses six months.....	75.00
Incidentals.....	30.00
Total.....	700.00

Leaving cash to put in bank... 550.00

The second year should bring still better returns, with no moving and building expenses to be deducted.

Three years at the outside will give an honest, industrious man a farm of 80 acres paid for with good buildings and all the conveniences and comforts of life. A farm that will be worth and that you would not sell for $25.00 per acre, besides the surplus cash realized from sale of crops. A net gain in three years of from $4,000 to $6,000. Where can you do better? WILL IT NOT PAY TO INVEST-GATE?

Remember there is no money to be paid until you have seen the land and examine it yourself.

If you want a good farm in the heart of Wisconsin, with plenty of fuel low taxes, no rent to pay, with good markets, good roads, good water, and best of climate, among n'ce thrifty neighbors and on easy terms, present price $7.50 per acre. Terms: $2.00 per acre down, balance on time to suit the purchaser. Call on or address,

BILL WILL BE BUTCHERED.

Democratic senators are lined up ready to make a hard fight against the Wilson bill. Nobody really believes that the bill will be defeated in the senate, but it is sure to encounter stronger opposition on the democratic side than has been expected hitherto. Some sort of a tariff revision bill is reasonably certain to be enacted, but it will be changed from its present shape in many particulars, and the struggle will be fruitful of dissensions and demoralization in the democracy. A protracted and exciting fight will be precipitated on the income tax, and the sugar, coal and iron questions will cause splits along other lines. The exigencies of revenue-raising may cause the income tax to be retained in the bill and necessitate the placing of a duty on sugar at the same time. Either of these imposts will be disastrous to the democracy in the coming elections, but a failure to levy them would, under the present conditions, lead to governmental insolvency or compel further bond sales and a large increase in the national indebtedness, an outcome which would be equally destructive to that organization.

ONE AND THE SAME.

"It is not the work of the democratic party that has brought hard times on our country," said a Janesville democrat last night. "It is the work of the southern wing of that party. That wing was never to be trusted."

Doubtless it is the southern wing of the democratic party that backs the Wilson tariff measure, but our Janesville friend should remember that the southern wing is the dominant wing when democracy is in the saddle. To say that the south cannot be trusted means that the national democracy cannot be trusted—nothing less, nothing more. Democracy and the solid south are synonymous. When national questions are considered as has been proven conclusively in congress this winter.

You don't hear very much these days about prominent Wisconsin democrats fighting for state nominations. A man could go out with a basket and pick up all the democratic nominations he could carry away, this year, without a struggle.

All over the city thinking voters are whispering the name of Herman Buchholz as the right man for school commissioner at large, and insist that he would distance all competitors.

A majority of from fifty to one hundred Second ward voters say that Fred L. Clemons is the proper man for school commissioner in that ward this spring.

Perennially Large.

They had been talking learnedly of the crops, and the varying yield from year to year.

"Well," said one, "other crops may be poor, or even fail almost entirely, but there is always a good date crop, especially of the American variety."

"What is the American variety of date, I'd like to know?"

"The candidate." — Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Indianapolis After Money.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 2.—After repeated attempts to persuade the Commercial club to turn over to the city the $12,000 unexpended balance of the National Grand Army encampment fund, as well as the $5,000 given to Secretary Fortune of the Commercial club, who acted as executive director of the encampment committee, the city has begun suit in court to compel the club to make restitution. "The city believes it will have little trouble in making the beneficiaries disgorge."

HARD TIMES" TALK HURTS TRADE

Pointed Lesson Taught by the Experience of a Local Merchant.

"It doesn't pay a business man to talk hard times," said one of the Tombstone club this morning. "I know where a man went into a store to buy a suit of clothes, and the proprietor talked as we're all in the habit of doing, until the man made up his mind that if things were so blue he'd put off buying for awhile longer. The proprietor doesn't know he lost a sale, but he did all the same. It was a good lesson to me and I think it ought to be to every business man."

SOME WELL KNOWN FACES.

An Interesting Career.

Emil Frey, the new president of the Swiss republic, came to this country in 1860 to familiarize himself with our institutions and incidentally to get some notion of our agricultural theories and practices. He enlisted in a company of Illinois infantry and honorably served four years in the war, retiring with the rank of brevet colonel. He went back to Switzerland in 1865, where he soon became prominent in Swiss politics. In 1882 he was appointed Swiss minister to the United States, which post he occupied with great distinction for five years. President Frey was born at Ariesheim, Basel, Oct. 24, 1838.

ONCE WAS STAR BOARDER.

How the Young Man Happened to Find Himself in the Hall Bedroom.

The young man at our boarding house was standing outside the front door when I came home to supper. It was a chilly evening and I passed the remark that he must find it cold standing there. He said that he was waiting for a friend. He was the only young man at our boarding house and we came to have no other name for him. I knew little of him except that he was a quiet young man and that he occupied the small room up-stairs in the rear, says a writer in the St. Louis Republic. As mine was the front room on the ground floor I invited him to wait for his friend there. While I was riding myself of my overcoat and preparing for the evening meal he sat looking out of the window and maintaining his reputation as a quiet man. Suddenly he said:

"I occupied this room once."

"Indeed," I replied while I thought. "They raised the rent, or his salary is less than it was."

"And I paid as much for it as I do for that postoffice box upstairs," he added. "I am what might be called the retrograding boarder. I was once the star here. That was when Mrs. — started this place, and I was her first boarder. They were once in very good circumstances, you know."

I replied that I had often heard her say so.

"Yes," he continued, "I was the star boarder then, but I don't show up much in the constellation now."

I was new to the place and his story promised to be of some interest to me and I encouraged him to proceed. He did so, still looking out of the window and evidently soliloquizing quite as much as addressing me.

"It isn't much of a story. I came here and took the room that you have now and occupied it until—well, until I came home one evening and found it rented. Mrs. — explained to me that she had rented it to a man and wife who could pay more than I had been paying. She had moved my things into the back parlor, which, she said, was almost as good as this room. Well, it was a nice room and the arrangement seemed quite reasonable to me, and I found no fault with it. Three months later she told me that if I kept the room I had—the back parlor—I must get a room-mate so that the rental of the room would be doubled. I did not want a room-mate, so I was moved up-stairs into the front room. Well, sir, that sort of a thing has finally landed me in that place in the rear where I have to go out into the hall to turn around."

He had finished, but I was too busy thinking to make any comments. My wife and I were just week-old arrivals and had seen but the suave can't-do-too-much-for-you won't-you-have-some-thing-else side of our landlady.

"Well, here comes my friend," exclaimed the young man; "I'm much obliged to you. Good evening."

"By the way," I said, as he reached the door, "where is that couple that forced you out of this room?"

"Oh, they are in the little room next to mine, up-stairs," and he had joined his friend outside.

German Process of Drying Wood.

A German process for drying wood has been tried with some success by a firm of Canadian lumbermen. It consists briefly in placing the timber for twelve days in chambers heated by steam and then in another room to dry. The plan, it is said, entirely gets rid of sap, and has been found more efficacious with juicy wood like beech and birch. It is certainly the case that timber prepared by this means is largely used in Germany, and particularly in Bavaria. At the same time it is stated that this artificial seasoning is not nearly so efficacious as that produced by natural means. Woods thus forced into maturity are apt later on both to warp and to rot. The constructors of the German navy have altogether declined to use wood so prepared, though it has been found useful for fencing and other kinds of cheap carpentry. — Manchester Courier.

British Marines Said to Have Been Landed at Bluefields, Nicaragua.

COLON, March 3.—The British warship Cleopatra arrived here yesterday from Bluefields Mosquito territory, Nicaragua, and soon after it reached this port it became known that its commander had landed and left there an armed force of eighty men, ten officers and three boats, with instructions to protect the Mosquito chief against any attempt upon the part of the Nicaragua government to break the treaty of 1860, securing to the former autonomy. The report has not been confirmed and is not credited at Washington.

A Perfect Cure

Mr. Joel H. Austin is a man very highly esteemed by all who know him. He is now pension attorney at Goshen, Ind., and was for 20 years a Baptist missionary minister. He says: "I suffered years with swelling of my limbs, at times very painful, especially at night. I could not sleep. I have taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and for weeks there has not been any swelling of my feet and limbs. I have also suffered for years with catarrh in the head, which was working down into my eyes. Since trying Hood's Sarsaparilla the pain in my head has stopped and I am positive of a perfect cure." FIRE BUGS WORKED TWICE AT TIFFANY.

CREAMERY AND BLACKSMITH SHOP BURNED LAST NIGHT.

Once Before the Former Institution Was Lighted By an Incendiary and Now the Owner, Mr. Haggart Will Not Rebuild—Loss Will Reach $5,000.

For the second time incendiaries burned the Tiffany creamery to the ground taking with it Fred Day's two story blacksmith shop, containing portable steam engine, James Chamberlain's saw mill, a lot of wagons and material, with most of the tools. The fire was discovered in the creamery boiler room about half past seven o'clock, and spread with a swiftness that prevented the saving of any portion of the creamery fixtures, or stock, consisting of about $200 in butter. James Haggart, the proprietor, was in the creamery about ten or fifteen minutes before the fire was discovered and found everything as usual. The fire in the engine was all raked out at four o'clock yesterday afternoon and everything was done to secure safety. Mr. Haggart always believed that the building destroyed last year was set on fire and hesitated about building, and in discussing the matter, especially declared that if he rebuilt the building would again be fired. But the business was promising and profitable and one he fully understood, and risked it again but to lose. At both fires there were very few people around. Mr. Spicer, the manager, was away and the time was favorable for making the act successful.

Burning Oil Smelled.

A strong odor of burning oil pervaded the creamery when the fire was discovered, while there was none in the engine room, and what was in the building was in cans or casks that the fire had not yet reached. Considering the circumstances there is little or no room for doubt that the building was lighted by a fire tug, and some four or five thousand dollars destroyed, a number of men thrown out of employment and a great injury done to the community. The creamery was doing an excellent business for this time of the year, with the promise of handling 15,000 pounds of milk daily through the summer. Mr. Haggart's loss cannot fall short of $3,400, partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Day had an insurance of $400 on the building and $400 on the stock. He estimates his loss at $2,000. He loses every dollar he has and is thrown out of a business that gave promise of a steady increase. Mr. Haggart will not rebuild as he is confident that he will not be allowed to carry on the business, and it is doubtful if the manufactory will be replaced.

The loss is a severe one to Tiffany as these buildings were the center around which a flourishing little town was being built.

BIG RACE MEETING IN PROSPECT

Janesville Association Compelled to Add $800 2:16 Purses for Trotters.

Prospects for Janesville's spring race meeting to be held in June are flattering. Milwaukee and Janesville are working together and applications for stalls for first class horses are already so numerous that the State Park company and the Janesville Driving Park association have found it necessary to both open a stake for 2:16 trotters, with a guarantee of $800, in addition to the large list of stakes and purses that has been advertised. Horses eligible to this stake that will be here and at Milwaukee are: Barenmore, 2:17; Lady Jane, 2:16; Prince H., 2:17; Winnie H., 2:18; Jerry L., 1:17; E. T. H., 2:16; Racine, 2:15; Alfa, 2:17; Maggie Sherman, 2:16; Bethel, 2:16; Jennie K., 2:15, and many others. Should this choice field come together for the stake the fanciers of Milwaukee and Janesville will show a race that will surpass any track contest that has ever been witnessed in the west outside of Chicago. The date of the meetings are especially advantageous from the fact that most of the "cracker jacks" that will enter the Chicago races will be placed in the contests.

CURTIS AFTER HANTHORN'S PLACE

Lively Contest Probable in the City Causes This Spring.

The local campaign in this city this spring is not by any means confined to the candidates for city treasurer on the republican side of the house. Street Commissioner Hanthorn has lively opposition by the candidacy of Milo H. Curtis. There will be twenty-seven delegates in the city convention this spring, and the successful candidate will have to secure at least fourteen. The distribution of delegates according to the republican vote at the last presidential election is First ward, 8; Second ward, 5; Third ward, 5; Fourth ward, 6; Fifth ward, 3. The First and Fifth wards each gain one delegate, while the Fourth ward has lost one. These figures may give contestants a better chance to plan their canvassing campaign work before the caucuses.

A NEW and interesting enterprise to be presented to All Souls Sunday school by the superintendent and pastor tomorrow, renders it important for all young gentlemen and lady members to be in attendance.

MRS. M. E. CRANE, of Chicago will be at the Myers House on Monday March 5 with a full line of art needlework and materials for the same. Ladies of Janesville and vicinity are cordially invited to call and inspect the many new and beautiful designs.

If it is beautiful by sunlight it is far more so under the brilliancy of electricity, and if you have not seen the immense display of solid silver in the Milwaukee street show window of A. F. Hall & Co., "the reliable jeweler." Be sure to see it this morning.

SOMETIMES during the next year you may want some solid silver. Its fun to buy when the stock is biggest and the price lowest. It will pay you to look at and remember the immense lot now being shown in the Milwaukee street show window at A. F. Hall & Co., "the reliable jeweler."

F. C. Cook & Co. have just received one of the finest lines of solid silver ever in the city. They comprise all the leading patterns and styles, and were brought so that Cook & Co. can sell them for the lowest possible figure. The designs are new and beautiful, and when you are looking for fine silver, don't forget Cook & Co. They can show you an elegant line.

The men's meetings Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. rooms are enthusiastic and interesting. Every man in the city is cordially invited to be present at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. John Latta will lead, his subject being "Deception Swiftly Punished." Good singing, and music by the orchestra. Strangers in the city are welcome.

My upholstered goods sale, during last night, having been a success, I will begin Monday morning an actual cost sale of chamber suits. I have a very large line of all grades. Among the bargains will be a solid oak suit with bevel plate mirror at $12.50. I have a very fine, highly polished, quarter sawed oak suit, 30x36 French bevel plate at $35. I carry a full line of upholstering material and couch covers at "hard time" prices. W. H. Ashcraft.

ASHTON IS ALIVE AND IN DETROIT.

THIS IS THE CHEERFUL TALE OF AN ALARMIST.

Chicago and Milwaukee Papers Persist in Digging Up the Report That the Prisoner Never Died But Escaped to Canada—Sheriff Bear Would Enjoy Opening the Grave.

Will Matthew R. Ashton's body be exhumed for the purpose of contradicting the stories that he made his escape to Canada while a dummy was carted away in the still hours of night and buried as the remains of the convicted murderer?

However this may be, the officers are satisfied that hundreds in Rock county credited these reports. Chicago papers have published statements that Ashton has been seen since his reported death in Detroit, and Chicago papers of today publish another report that a committee from this city are to go to Madison and investigate the reports. Sheriff Bear was reading this last report this morning, when he said to a reporter.

"A good many believe that a 'trick' has been played to get Ashton away, and that a dead man was sent up from Chicago and buried in place of Ashton. I am going up to Madison for the purpose of investigating the reports. I had thought of digging up the body and bringing it down here. When this is done it ought to be placed where everybody who thinks Ashton is alive can come and look at the dead body. This is the best way to convince the people I know of."

"Do you think Ashton is in Canada?" was asked the sheriff.

"I did not see him after he was quarantined and all the information I have is from the jailer, the nurses, and the physicians and the undertaker. You see a number of people must have been parties to his escape, if he did escape. Even with this you cannot convince some people unless the body itself is placed in their sight. Therefore, I say it may be best to dig it up and let them see it. I think I would rather let the next sheriff have the job though, on second thought."

ARC LIGHTS TO BE CONSIDERED.

The City Council Committee Will Come Together This Evening.

The common council committee on gas and on highways, street and bridges are to meet this evening to consider important matters in their hands. The gas committee will wrestle with the proposition of Captain Norcross to place one hundred arc lights in the city for illuminating the streets. Matters relating to the South Main street grade will be discussed in the other body.

BANQUET FOR LOCAL ODD FELLOWS

Merry Time in the Club Rooms After Degree Work.

Rock River Encampment of odd fellows held an interesting meeting last evening. After working in the second and third degrees and attending to the regular business, a large number of members enjoyed a banquet in the club room. The attendance at the meeting was one of the largest in many months. Few, if any encampments in the state are livelier than No. 3.

LONG STABBED IN A SALOON.

Former Janesville Circus Man in a Critical Condition in Chicago.

John Long, once a Janesville circus man, but now proprietor of the Park Theatre in Chicago, is in the Cook county hospital in a precarious condition, suffering from a knife wound received in a saloon. Long and a hospital employe named James Nolan quarreled, and the latter, after an apparent settling of the dispute, stabbed Long in the right side. He may die.

A New Acquisition to Trade Circles.

O. D. Lincoln, one of the oldest and best known traveling salesmen in the state has resigned his position with M. D. Wells & Co., the boot and shoe dealers. Mr. Lincoln is well and very favorably known in Janesville and Wisconsin. He resigned his position with the above house, with whom he has been connected for the past nine years, to go into partnership with Brown Bros., the boot and shoe merchants. Hereafter Mr. Lincoln's smiling face will always be seen at Brown Bros. store as now he is a full fledged partner. The Gazette is glad to be able to number Mr. Lincoln among Janesville merchants. He will add to the mercantile strength of the city, and what is M. D. Wells & Co.'s loss is our gain.

Get There Quick.

Rosenfeld's argument on the eighth page is the most convincing we ever read. If you are wise you will take advantage of those prices; the particular goods advertised will only last tonight and Monday. Tuesday something else will take their place.

IN AND OUT OF THE BOWER CITY

Good Concert At All Souls.

A very enjoyable concert was given by the Chicago Lyric club at All Souls church last night, they being assisted by Prof. W. T. Thiele of Jefferson. The performers were Edwin S. Timmons, flute and saxophone soloist and Miss Lee Timmons solo harpist and organist while cornet and organ solos fell to Prof. Thiele. The concert gave entire satisfaction and the Chicago artists as well as Prof. Thiele won themselves new laurels. Miss Lucie Waldo acquitted herself gracefully as Prof. Thiele's accompanist.

The Telephones Were Demolished.

It was a peculiar state of things that Fred Milligan, the Janesville lineman for the Wisconsin Telephone Company found at Delavan. There had been something wrong with the telephone exchange and the wires were in such shape that when you would ring up the Central every subscriber would hear it. Milligan found that the principal work was to have the ground wires put in a damper place than where they had been.

Lewinkind Stock Is Drying Out.

The goods in Isaac Lewinkind's store which were scorched and wet Wednesday night, are slowly drying out. The wreck does not appear quite as bad as it did the morning after the fire. Adjusters are expected to arrive at any moment to look over the stock and adjust the loss.

William Hamilton.

William Hamilton died at his home in Johnston Friday noon, aged eighty-three years. Funeral services will be held at his home on Monday, March 5, at 2 o'clock p. m., Rev. Huey of the Rock Prairie Presbyterian church, officiating.

Prof. Flint Taught

MRS. LEASE A TRICK.

MAN WHO FOOLED JANESVILLE STILL ON EARTH.

He Showed Mary Ellen, the "Biggest Man in Kansas" How to Hypnotize Her Husband and Then Wrench from Him the Secrets of Masonry.

Professor Herbert Flint, the mesmerist, has done much good in the United States, in addition to the opening of the eyes of Janesville people to the possibilities of his art.

Professor Flint, it will be remembered, gave exhibitions here and hypnotized one man so thoroughly that he didn't "holler" when they stuck pins in him and burned his tongue with bad cigars. One day the young man and the professor fell out. To demonstrate that the professor was a fraud the young man did all the wonderful tricks that he had done on the stage without being hypnotized, and with no inspiration but beer. Professor Flint's usefulness in Janesville then ended.

The professor is now on earth for the second time. He is said to be responsible for Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease's knowledge of Free Masonry. About a year ago Mrs. Lease became interested in the subject of hypnotism. She made a study of the science, her ambition being to acquire hypnotic power. With this object in view she engaged the services of Prof. Flint, and he says she became very skillful. The Masonic secrets which she has are said to have been secured from her husband while he was under her hypnotic influence.

My Heart.

There came into my heart one day,
A love, so great, a love so strong,
I had no will, I had no way,
But to submit; I seemed to belong
To another sphere, one I had not known,
Could hardly believe what I heard or saw,
I only knew that the seed had been sown,
That it grew and blossomed, without one flaw.

A flower of passion, and yet so pure
It drew down all, its odor so sweet
Fill'd my whole life, and made me sure
That this life, my own, was a love complete
No doubt but I had of the other side,
One look, one hand clasp, enough for me,
Had I doubted, I should have died
My very soul bathed in agony.

As it was, a holy calm, was mine;
Nothing disturbed my dream so sweet,
Only God I knew, my blood like wine
Flow'd through my veins, down to my feet.
It warmed my heart and put new life
Into my being, I was a man again
The world looked beautiful was not all Stuff.

I was happy, my love not in vain.

SOME WHAT HUMOROUS

Loss of Confidence.

The ability of the average colored servant in the south to steal with impunity from his or her employer, as the case may be, is truly phenomenal. "How's yer comin' on in yer new place?" asked Jim Webster of Matilda Snowball. "I've done laid up mosh den twenty dollars, and I hain't drawn a cent ob wages yet."

"Ain't yer afeared dey will hold back yer wages when dey comes ter pay you?" "No, I've got puffed conference in 'em."—Alex E. Sweet, in "Texas Siftings."

Perfectly Helpless.

Mr. Meanitall—So you have quite recovered from your throat trouble, Miss Cotillon? Miss Cotillon—Yes; but it has left me in a terrible condition. The doctor says I shall never be able to raise my voice or scream.

Mr. Meanitall—That is not very serious; you seem to talk all right. Miss Cotillon—Yes; but suppose some one should try to kiss me, for instance?—Puck.

Bobbie's Wish.

I wish some man would make a top that, when 'twas spun, would never stop."—Harper's Young People.

DOES HIS WORK THOROUGHLY.

Mrs. Worrit—Oh! doctor, is it really true that there are many people buried alive? Dr. Graves—None of my patients ever are.—Once a Week.

Poor Johnnie's Fate.

Little Johnnie took a mirror and he licked the back all off. Thinking, in his childish fancy, it would cure the whooping cough. But on the morning of the funeral the neighbors said to Mrs. Brown, "Twas a chilly day for little Johnnie when the mercury went down."—Boston Traveller.

A Modern Miracle.

The church works miracles today. As miracles were wrought of yore; The marriage rite restores their sight To people who were blind before!—Truth.

A. Golden, druggist, Birmingham, Ala., writes: "Please publish some of the testimonials I have sent you for Japanese Eye cure." Sold at Smith's pharmacy.

Johnny—I wonder what the poor pig is trying to say, mamma? Mamma—He isn't trying to say anything—he's only squealing. Johnnie—Only squealing? Why, I thought, mamma, he was only stuttering.—Harper's Young People.

One Requisite Lacking.

Wiggs—Do you regard Mrs. White-Wings as a professional or amateur actress? Futilites—Most decidedly an amateur; I don't understand that she has even applied for a divorce.—Puck.

Consistent.

"De Jinks was nothing if not consistent." "What do you mean?" "Well, he blew in his fortune and then blew out his brains."—Atlanta Constitution.

A Suspicion.

"The cat drank all the milk." "Did you see her?" "No; Johnny told me she did it." "Don't touch the cat. Go and catch Johnny for me."—Alex Sweet, in "Texas Siftings."

Changed His Position.

Tom Denver—Saw Tommy Davidson in the park this morning. Ethel—Was he on horseback? Tom Denver—Well off and on.—Life.

Too Much of a Compliment.

She—Yes; so Mr. Murray says. That I look five years younger when I am skating. He—Why, you look twenty years younger.—Life.

Very Queer.

re the sensations experienced by the nervous and dyspeptic. Unaccountable palpitation, buzzing in the ears, flushing of one side of the face, odd taste and tingling in the mouth, constant restlessness, stinging in the gut, and sinking in the stomach, and a sensitiveness to slight sounds that magnifies them tenfold, low spirits—these are only a few of the charming experiences of the individual who suffers from constipation, nervousness and indigestion. It is in that usually travel together. Their gay and festive career is, however, brought to a full stop by that great evil of the age, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which also overcomes their ailments—constipation and biliousness. This popular remedy fortifies those who use it against malaria, chills, rheumatism and kidney complaint, restores nervous quietude and promotes appetite, vigor and sleep.

The Advertising.

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is always within the bounds of reason because it is true; it always appeals to the sober common sense of thinking people because it is true; and it is always fully substantiated by endorsements which, in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation.

Dullam's German Medicine Co.—Gentlemen I take great pleasure in testifying in behalf of Dullam's German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Cure.
